"Alte Volo" - Aim High

Our Ethos

We believe that education is about helping children to become independent learners so that when they leave school, college or university they can enter the wider society with confidence. We aim to provide a stimulating environment based on Christian values which permeate the life of the school.

Education is not just concerned with equipping students with the knowledge and skills that they need to earn a living. It must also help young people to become good citizens who have respect for other people, other cultures and other beliefs. It should develop their awareness of their rich cultural heritage. It should enable them to think things out for themselves by exploring the moral and spiritual dimensions of their lives. We value our close links with the church and place great importance on a daily act of worship.

Education should also stimulate children to use their leisure time creatively and to pursue a healthy life style. It should encourage them to set themselves high standards and to be proud of their achievements. Education must serve all our children whatever their abilities, background, gender, creed or ethnic origin. Consequently, we at All Saints try to begin to fulfil these objectives by developing in our pupils an appetite for learning, a confidence in themselves and a desire to achieve their potential.
